

Benefits of Working with Child Support Services

Parents: California's Department of Child Support Services may be able to help you secure child support, even if the non-custodial parent lives in another state or country such as England, Canada and more!

Your local Department of Child Support Services can assist you by:

- Locating non-custodial parents
- Establishing paternity
- Establishing a medical support order
- Establishing a child support order
- Enforcing and collecting child support and past due support by:
 - Garnishing wages and some types of social security benefits
 - Intercepting unemployment/disability/worker's compensation, benefits, income tax refunds and lottery winnings
 - Recording liens on real property interests
 - Filing liens in personal injury, probate cases and other lawsuits
 - Suspending drivers, business and professional licenses
 - Preventing passport issuance or renewal
 - Receiving funds from retirement and deferred compensation funds
 - Initiating court actions for contempt and for non-payment of child support
- Reviewing your case for modification if circumstances have changed

California's Child Support Program collected nearly $2.3 billion in 2006, more than any other state in the nation.

Child support helps families be self-sufficient
